

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am excited to apply for the Developer position in Cathay Pacific. As a recent graduate of Hong Kong Polytechnic University with a degree in Computing and 1.5 years of internship experience, I am confident in my ability to contribute positively to your team.

During my internship, I gained practical experience working on various software projects, from design to development and testing. My responsibilities included working closely with team members to understand project requirements, writing and debugging code, and developing documentation. I was also able to apply my knowledge of programming languages such as Java, Python, and Golang in real-world settings.

I also had the opportunity to work on a team project that involved collaborating with team members from different departments. This experience improved my communication and collaboration skills, allowing me to work more effectively in a team environment.

As a developer, I am committed to delivering high-quality work and ensuring that projects are completed on time and within budget. I am also eager to continue learning and expanding my knowledge in the field.

Your organization's reputation for innovation and cutting-edge technology aligns with my career aspirations, and I am excited to contribute to your team's continued success.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to discussing my qualifications further and learning more about the Developer position.

Sincerely,

Hugo So